The Buzz About akira complete...
"The messaging center allows us to track communication about each patient providing a great resource that we can use to look back at when certain treatments were discussed or who was involved with the case."

Jennifer RN, London Health Science Centre

"The product akira provided for us is amazing! I don't know how the clinic ever survived without it."

Nicole, London Health Science Centre

A Rising Need

There are a rising number of diseases and disorders that afflict people, and even more drug therapy trials taking place to find cures.

This has left the health care industry in need of a fool proof way to track and monitor patient progress.

The old paper record keeping methods are time consuming, and make extrapolating and analyzing data very difficult. An electronic medical record system is an essential part of providing superior care to patients.
